

Bellevue residents are pledging to clean green

POISON DANGER CAUTION WARNING

Are these words on your cleaning products?

These key words should get your attention, because products with these words are one of the most common reasons people call the Washington Poison Center.

Join your neighbors who are pledging to make their own safer, inexpensive, yet effective products to clean, shine, and polish the safe and healthy way. Check recipes in a Green Cleaning brochure. You can use ordinary ingredients such as water, vinegar, baking soda, and liquid castile soap.

Add a “zip-it tool” to your green cleaning kit to easily unclog drains instead of using toxic drain cleaners. Zip-it tools are available online and at local stores for about $3.

More information about safer alternatives to household hazardous waste and where to take household hazardous waste for disposal is at King County's Local Hazardous Waste Management Program's website
